HOCHTIEF Facility Management has been awarded a contract by Hessisches Immobilienmanagement, a company owned by the federal state, to operate a further 22 public-sector buildings. The facility manager is thus now responsible for a total of 74 public-sector properties. The contract will initially run for three years. It was agreed that details of the contract value would not be disclosed.

The properties under management include courthouses, police stations and administrative offices, and tax offices. They are distributed across several different locations in Frankfurt and the Main-Taunus region. HOCHTIEF will service and maintain the technical systems of the buildings and ensure efficient energy management. A 24-hour on call service is also being provided.
